

The Neil Isaacs and Frank Wright Fellowship in Investigative Journalism

Are you:

- ◆ Interested in investigative reporting?
- ◆ a sophomore or junior; with
- ◆ diverse academic and work experience; plus
- ◆ strong writing and research skills?

Purpose: This paid summer Fellowship is designed to provide unparalleled experience in investigative journalism.

Reporting to Lowell Bergman, 2004 Pulitzer Prize winner for Journalism in the Public Interest, and professor at Berkeley Graduate School of Journalism.

Responsibilities: From fact-checking to field work, to courtroom document research to conducting telephone interviews; you'll do it all. Fast-paced environment.

Funding: $3000 for 12 weeks work over the summer. (Transportation to and housing in Berkeley is responsibility of the fellow.)

Deadline: Applications due to Associate Dean Elizabeth Ciner, Laird 131 by 5 p.m. on Friday, February 5, 2010

<http://go.carleton.edu/fellow>