Knights wind up regular season by hosting Scots and Gusties

Carleton, which clinched its sixth straight MAC Playoff bid and their 14th conference tournament appearance in the last 18 seasons this past Saturday, hosts Macalester and Gustavus to end the regular season. It will mark Carleton’s 15th MAC Playoff appearance, tied with Gustavus for the second-most in conference history and only trailing St. Thomas (18). The Knights need a pair of victories and a St. Olaf win over Gustavus to grab the fourth seed and lock up a first-round home playoff game. Either a Carleton loss or Gustie win over the Oles sends the Knights on the road to either Bethel or Gustavus in the MIAC Tournament Quarterfinals, which starts on Monday, Feb. 19.

Scouting the Scots:

Entering this season, the development of Tom Conboy, the transfer of Abe Woldelessie, and the return of Brad Liddell had Macalester hoping for a return to the MIAC Playoffs. However, after Saturday’s 105-96 loss to Bethel, the trio of juniors will have to wait until their senior season to get back to the playoffs. The loss dropped the Scots to 6-12 in the MIAC, which eliminated them from playoff contention.

The Scots have been one of the best offensive units in the conference this season, but their defense has been their downfall, as they are giving up 773 points per game in MIAC play, which is second-worst in the conference. Macalester has scored 73.6 points per game in MIAC play, which is fourth best in the nation. The main reason for Macalester’s offensive success has been its three-point shooting. The Scots are one of the best three-point shooting teams in the nation this season, and have already set a school record with 239 three-pointers this season. The Scots’ average of 9.0 three-pointers made per game ranks 10th in Division-III. Carleton has been the worst MIAC team at defending the three this season in conference play, as MIAC opponents are making 39.8% of their threes, so three-point shooting could be the key to this game.

The Scots are led by the aforementioned trio of Conboy, Woldelessie, and Liddell. Conboy is the team’s leading scorer, and his 173 points per game is sixth-best in the MIAC. Conboy is also ranked fourth in the conference with 7.7 rebounds per game. Woldelessie is right behind Conboy on the MIAC scoring leaders list, as his 16.3 points per game is seventh most in the conference. The transfer from St. Thomas has been the biggest surprise in the MIAC this season, as he went from being a JV player at St. Thomas last year to leading the conference in assists this season. His average of 5.7 assists per game is best in the MIAC and 22nd best in the nation. In addition, Woldelessie is shooting 46.8% from behind-the-arc, which is the fifth best three-point percentage in the conference.

While Woldelessie has the best three-point percentage on the team, his backcourt mate Liddell is the Scots’ primary three-point threat. Liddell has made 3.9 three-pointers per game, which is sixth most in the country, and second most in the MIAC. He is averaging 15.4 points per game.

Seniors Lars Johnson and Jesse Hollander round out the Macalester starting lineup. Johnson averages 7.0 points per game and 3.8 rebounds per game, while Hollander averages 6.6 points per game and 7.1 rebounds per game.

Sophomore Brian Ranwick and senior Andy Cook provide a spark off of the bench, as Ranwick averages 3.7 points and rebounds per game. First-year Paul Richie is the only other Scot to score this season, as he averages 1.7 points and 1.6 rebounds per game.

The Scots are coached by Kurt Kietzer, who is in his 10th season on the Macalester bench.

Earlier this season

At St. Paul: W, 64-56
Mike Kootsiskas scored a career-high 18 points, added six rebound and six steals and converted a key three-point play with a minute remaining as Carleton held high-scoring Macalester to 21 first-half points en route to a 64-56 win in St. Paul.

Jake Phillips added 15 points and six rebounds for the Knights and Zach Johnson added 12 points and five rebounds. The Knights held the Scots, the MIAC’s top three-point shooting club, to 7-of-24 from beyond the arc.

[through games of Feb. 12, 2007]
Scouting the Gusties:

Gustavus has qualified for their seventh consecutive MIAC postseason tournament, and can clinch first-round home playoff game with a win tonight against St. Olaf. Gustavus, although not as strong as they have been in years past, does have the potential to make a run deep into the MIAC Playoffs. The Gusties upset MIAC-leading St. Thomas a week ago, but their inconsistency showed up as they fell to Hamline in the game following their upset of the Tommies.

The Gusties are once again one of the best defensive teams in the MIAC, holding opponents to 68.8 points per game, which ranks fourth in the conference. Gustavus has been done in by their inability to defend the three-point shot, along with their lack of a true offensive star like they have had in years past.

They do sport one of the best all-around players in the MIAC in junior Trevor Wittwer. Last season’s MIAC Sixth Man of the Year, Wittwer has followed up two stellar campaigns with another solid season. He is leading the team in both scoring and rebounding at 13.4 points and 5.4 rebounds per game. The forward from Redwood Falls is also shooting better than 60 percent from the field, which ranks third in the conference. He will undoubtedly be named All-MIAC for the first time in his career.

Phil Sowden and Jay Stein patrol the paint for the Gusties. Sowden is the team’s second leading scorer at 12.7 points a game and is one of the MIAC best passing big men, averaging a team-high 3.0 assists per contest. Stein, averages over 15 minutes a game of floor time, scoring 4.4 points and grabbing 3.4 rebounds during that span.

Starting at the guard positions for head coach Mark Hanson are senior Andrew Olson and sophomore Mike DesLauriers. Olson has been slowed this season after coming off his knee injury late last year, scoring just 6.6 points per game. He is the team’s most accurate player from the foul line at over 91 percent marksmanship. DesLauriers has grabbed the starting point guard position over Kane Sivesind, but both players see similar amounts of action at about 20-22 minutes a contest.

The Gusties have MIAC’s best reserve post player in Andrew Doble. The junior is averaging in double figures with 10.7 points per game, which is third on the Gustavus squad. Doble joins Sivesind and rookie Jesse Van Sickle as the main players off the bench for the Gusties.

Coach Hanson is in his 17th season at the helm of Gustavus, amassing a 338-128 overall record.

Earlier this season

At Saint Peter: W, 66-53

Jake Phillips scored 19 points and added six rebounds and four assists and Zach Johnson added 18 points as Carleton College held host Gustavus Adolphus to 23 second-half points in a key 66-53 win over the Gusties.
