2008-09 SEASON REVIEW
KNIGHTS RETURN TO NCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Carleton women’s basketball team went 19–10 last year and earned its fifth trip to the national tournament. Five members of the squad received conference awards. Hannah Oken-Berg, Sarah Lincoln, and Amber Connor were named to the All-MIAC team. Additionally, Annie Isler was honorable mention all-conference, and rookie Ally Weaver earned a slot on the MIAC All-First Year squad. Six different players led the team in scoring at some point in the season.

The Knights won six of their last seven regular-season contests to grab the fourth seed in the MIAC Playoffs. After opening the conference tournament with a victory over Concordia, the Knights went on the road and knocked off top seed St. Benedict to advance to the MIAC Playoffs title game for the seventh time in the event’s eight-year history. Carleton next rallied from an 11-point deficit and prevailed in overtime at second-seed St. Thomas to secure the conference’s automatic berth into the NCAA tournament. In the opening round of the NCAA Championships, the Knights lost to No. 21 Wisconsin–Eau Claire, 61–52.
