won the last three meetings, although the home team is only 5-6 in the last 11 match-ups.

Gustavus, and Gustavus was able to defeat Bethel on Wednesday, then Gustavus and Carleton would tie for second place in the MIAC but Gustavus would earn the number two seed. If Carleton was to lose to St. Benedict and Gustavus lost to Concordia, Gustavus would earn the number one seed. Moreover, if Carleton was to lose to St. Benedict and Gustavus was able to defeat Bethel on Wednesday, then Gustavus and Carleton would tie for second place in the MIAC but Gustavus would earn the number two seed. Thus, the MIAC playoff implications on this game are numerous. With two games left for both teams, if either of the regular season title if they were able to defeat Gustavus Adolphus and Macalester could upset the Blazers.

Last time out – St. Thomas 77, Carleton 58

Megan Vig scored 18 points and grabbed seven rebounds but fourth-ranked Carleton College was upset by a hot-shooting University of St. Thomas, 77-58. The Knights suffered their worst defeat of the season, falling at the University of St. Thomas 77-58. The Blazers, meanwhile, fell behind Gustavus Adolphus College by 27 points in the second half in succumbing to the Gusties, 72-60.

Carleton enters Wednesday's contest with St. Benedict tied for first place in the MIAC with the Blazers, as each team has a 18-2 conference record. If Carleton defeats St. Benedict, the Knights will clinch a share of the regular season title and a first-round bye in the upcoming MIAC Playoffs. If Carleton were to lose to St. Benedict and Gustavus won, it would win the regular-season title outright and earn the top seed for the MIAC playoffs.

While Carleton and St. Benedict are not natural rivals, the past four seasons have witnessed the series becoming one of the most exciting in the MIAC. Last year, Carleton beat the Blazers, 76-75, at home. The home team has only lost three meets in the last 11 match-ups.

Possible Playoff Scenarios for Carleton

Carleton enters Wednesday’s contest with St. Benedict tied for first place in the MIAC with the Blazers, as each team has a 18-2 conference record. Thus, the MIAC playoff implications on this game are numerous. With two games left for both teams, if either Carleton or CSB wins out, it would win the MIAC title outright and earn the top seed for the MIAC playoffs.

If St. Benedict defeats the Knights, it will clinch the number two seed in the MIAC playoffs by virtue of a better head-to-head record, but Carleton could still earn a share of the regular season title if they were able to defeat Gustavus Adolphus and Macalester could upset the Blazers.

If Carleton defeats St. Benedict, the Knights will clinch a share of the regular season MIAC title but not necessarily the number one seed. If Carleton were to lose to Gustavus and the Blazers beat Macalester, the two teams would finish tied for the regular season title, and CSB would earn the number one seed by virtue of its worst conference loss being to fourth-place Concordia as opposed to Carleton’s being against sixth-place St. Thomas. Moreover, if Carleton was to lose to St. Benedict and Gustavus, and Gustavus was able to defeat Bethel on Wednesday, then Gustavus and Carleton would tie for second place in the MIAC but Gustavus would earn the number two seed in the playoffs by virtue of its superior record against the teams (this case only CSB) finishing above the two tied teams.

Knights unbeaten at home

Carleton enters Wednesday’s contest with a perfect 12-0 home record. Over the last four seasons the Knights are 46-4 at home, 42-3 in MIAC play.

Game 24

Knights, Blazers clash with MIAC title on the line

Carleton and St. Benedict, both of which suffered only its second conference loss of the season on Saturday, meet with the winner earning at least a share of the MIAC regular-season title and a first-round bye in the upcoming MIAC Playoffs.

The Knights suffered their worst defeat of the season, falling at the University of St. Thomas 77-58. The Blazers, meanwhile, fell behind Gustavus Adolphus College by 27 points in the second half in succumbing to the Gusties, 72-60.

Carleton is ranked eighth in the nation by the USA Today/ESPN/WBCA poll, and 11th by d3hoops.com. St. Benedict is 13th in both the coaches poll and the D3Hoops.com ranking.

Broadcast information

Wednesday’s game can be heard live in Northfield and surrounding areas on KYMN 1080 AM, with Jeff Johnson on the call. The broadcast will also be carried worldwide on the web on Knights Online (www.carleton.edu/athletics/broadcasts/).

Rivalry with Blazers one of MIAC’s most heated

While Carleton and St. Benedict are not natural rivals, the past four seasons have witnessed the series becoming one of the most exciting matchups. The MIAC has to offer in women’s basketball. This year’s second meeting marks the sixth consecutive time the two teams have met when both are nationally ranked. Over the last four years, the series favors the Blazers, 5-4, and at least one team has been ranked in eight of those nine meetings. Last year, Carleton beat the Blazers, 76-75, at West Gym when St. Benedict was ranked second in the nation. The Blazers returned the favor, ending Carleton’s 23-game losing streak on Feb. 9, 2003, 77-65. In the 2001 MIAC Playoffs, Carleton’s 85-75 overtime victory likely denied the Blazers a trip to the NCAA Tournament. Carleton also beat St. Benedict in the 2002 MIAC Playoff title game, this time at Claire Lynch Hall. The Blazers handed Carleton one of its only two losses of the season on Jan. 19, 2004, in St. Joseph, 61-58. The home team has won the last three meetings, although the home team is only 5-6 in the last 11 matchups.

Individual Player Notes

- Megan Vig notched her sixth game of scoring 20 points or more with her career-high 28 point outburst against Concordia on Feb. 7.
- Linnea Engel currently has 956 points for her career, and with at least three games left on the season, has a reasonable chance of becoming the seventh Knight to score 1,000 points in her career.
- Engel currently is ninth all-time in scoring, and is seven and 23 points away from the eighth and seventh place, respectively.

Team Notes

- Carleton has been ranked for 107 consecutive weeks. The last time they were not ranked was Jan. 20, 2002.
- Carleton has a 92-16 record over the past four seasons, which is best among all MIAC teams. It also has achieved its fourth consecutive 20-win season, something that only three other MIAC programs have ever accomplished.
About St. Benedict

Head Coach Mike Durbin returned three starters and eight letter-winners from last year’s MIAC tri-champion team, but lost perhaps his two best players from that team. Even with the loss of more than 35 points per game, Durbin has led the Blazers to a 20-3 start and a 18-2 record in conference, which is third best in the MIAC. She is also leading the MIAC in assist/turnover ratio, as her ratio of 1.96 is more prodigious of the bunch, as she is averaging 11.2 points per game, 4.6 rebounds per game, and 4.3 assists per game, is averaging 12.6 points per game, 8.8 rebounds per game and 2.4 blocks per game. Her block average is third best in the MIAC. Anna Heikenen, who is averaging 16.4 points per game, which is right behind Carleton’s Megan Vig for sixth most scoring, added 15 points on 5-of-5 shooting from the field and free throw line and added eight rebounds for Carleton.

This is coach Durbin’s 19th season at the helm for the Blazers. He has amassed an overall record of 402-109 in 20 years of coaching.

Perhaps the Blazers strongest point is their depth. They feature four non-starters averaging more than four points per game, and three more averaging more than three points per game. Back-up first-year guard Katie Kempe is averaging 2.0 assists per game, while 6-2 junior forward Tara Schloe is averaging 4.7 points and 4.5 rebounds per game.

2003-04 carleton college knights

St. Benedict Series

This marks the 45th meeting between the two schools. Carleton won the first three games of the series before St. Benedict won a staggering 30 games in a row against the Knights between 1983-99. Recently, however, the competition between the two teams has been top-notch. Over the last 11 games Carleton has a 5-6 record against the Blazers, and the last three contests have been won by the home team. The Knights and Blazers have met twice in the MIAC Playoffs, with Carleton winning each matchup.

Head Coach Mike Durbin returned three starters and eight letter-winners from last year’s MIAC tri-champion team, but lost perhaps his two best players from that team. Even with the loss of more than 35 points per game, Durbin has led the Blazers to a 20-3 start and a 18-2 record in conference.

On the court the Blazers are led by a trio of talented players. Their leading scorer is 5-11 sophomore forward Anna Heikenen, who is averaging 16.4 points per game, which is right behind Carleton’s Megan Vig for sixth best in the MIAC. Heikenen is also pulling down 5.0 rebounds per game, and her 56 percent field goal percentage is fourth best in the MIAC. St. Benedict is anchored in the post by 6-4 junior center Kim Johnson. Johnson is averaging 12.6 points per game, 8.8 rebounds per game and 2.4 blocks per game. Her block average is third best in the MIAC, while her rebounding average is fifth best.

In the backcourt the Blazers start a slew of talented players. Senior wing Ashley Brown is the most impressive of the bunch, as she is averaging 11.2 points per game, 4.6 rebounds per game, and 4.3 assists per game, which is third best in the MIAC. She is also leading the MIAC in assist/turnover ratio, as her ratio of 1.96 is more than 5.6 percent higher than her nearest competitor. She’s also St. Benedict’s all-time leader in three-pointers made with 182 career threes. Starting alongside Brown is fellow senior wing Leah Laurich. Laurich is averaging 7.3 points per game, and her 57.7 percent three-point percentage is the best in the MIAC. At the point is senior Jill Podgorski, who averages 3.2 points and 2.9 assists per game.

Perhaps the Blazers strongest point is their depth. They feature four non-starters averaging more than four points per game, and three more averaging more than three points per game. Back-up first-year guard Katie Kempe is averaging 2.0 assists per game, while 6-2 junior forward Tara Schloe is averaging 4.7 points and 4.5 rebounds per game off the bench.

This is coach Durbin’s 19th season at the helm for the Blazers. He has amassed an overall record of 402-109 in 20 years of coaching.

In the polls
Carleton dropped four spots to eighth in the USA Today/ESPN/WBCA top 25 coaches’ poll and fell two spots to 11th in this week’s DJHoops.com poll.
Carleton has now been ranked in either or both polls a school-record 31 consecutive times.

Tammy Metcalf-Filzen
Tammy Metcalf-Filzen moves into her seventh season as head coach at Carleton. In only six seasons she has turned the program into a conference contender, leading them to three consecutive MIAC Playoff titles, 20-win seasons and NCAA Tournament bids in 2000-01, 2001-02 and 2002-03. In 2002-03 she was named the MIAC coach of the year and WBCA Region Coach of the Year, leading the Knights to a school-record 25 victories. She earned the same honors in 2000-01. She previously served as head coach at St. Olaf and as an assistant at Temple and Minnesota. She is Carleton’s all-time winningest coach.

Metcalf-Filzen has presided over one of the most remarkable turnarounds in all of NCAA Division III women's basketball. When she took over prior to the 1997-98 season, the Knights had a program winning percentage of .323. Since Metcalf-Filzen assumed the head coaching position, the program has winning percentage of .688 and has posted its first 20-win seasons. Metcalf-Filzen has led Carleton to a 70-11 record over the last three seasons and 92-16 over the last four.

Carleton has improved its record in each of Metcalf-Filzen’s first six seasons and her .688 winning percentage is the best in school history. A 1983 St. Olaf graduate, Metcalf-Filzen earned her M.S. from the University of Minnesota in 1987. She won four varsity letters as a point guard for the Gels, twice earned All-MIAC honors, led the NCAA Division III in free-throw percentage in 1982-83, and was inducted into the St. Olaf Hall of Fame in 1999 and the Northfield Hall of Fame in 1992. Metcalf-Filzen owns a 157-78 record in nine seasons overall and 121-52 in seven seasons at Carleton.
