Daily Brain Teaser

Man 1 can see Man 2 and Man 3. Man 2 can see Man 3. Man 3 can see none of the others. Man 4 can see none of the others.

The men are wearing hats. They are told that there are two white hats and two black hats. The men initially don’t know what color hat they are wearing. They are not allowed to turn around or move. They are not allowed to talk to each other. They are not allowed to take their hats off. They must shout out the color of the hat that they are wearing as soon as they know for certain what color it is. Who is the first person to shout?

Student Leadership & Involvement Grant

What is it?

The grant strives to provide partial funding in support of “outside the classroom” leadership development experiences throughout fall, winter, and spring terms. Leadership and involvement grants may also be used to aid in funding workshops or speakers at Carleton that will provide multiple students with knowledge and experience that will be applied to a student organization or initiative.

The Selective Liberal Arts Consortium (SLAC) is a consortium of nine selective liberal arts colleges that work to provide students with off-campus interview opportunities for post-graduate and internship positions with top employers in many fields. Organizations that interview through SLAC come from all sectors, including for-profit, nonprofit, and government, and opportunities include entry-level jobs and internships in a wide range of career areas. SLAC hosts two in-person recruiting days, one in Washington, D.C. (January 6), and one in New York City (January 9). Both events are only open to students at participating schools. Students who apply to opportunities through SLAC will find out if they have been selected for interviews by Tuesday, November 22.
