This month, we say farewell to the Class of 2017 and shift our attention to the Class of 2021. Later this summer, I will provide an update on key initiatives/programs for the Division of Student Life. In the meantime, I am pleased to announce that Sindy Fleming, currently director for the Center for Multicultural and International Engagement for St. Olaf College, has been named Assistant Dean of Students in the Dean of Students Office effective July 15, 2017. In this new role, Sindy will provide centralized support for students on leave or taking a leave, and lead efforts to increase programmatic synergies between the Office of Intercultural and International Life and the Gender and Sexuality Center. Sindy will also collaborate with faculty and staff to provide an environment of dialogue in which students build on their critical thinking and leadership skills.

Sindy attended University Del Valle in Guatemala City, Guatemala, and is a graduate of St. Olaf College in Spanish and Education K-12 licensure. She also received a Master of Education in Teaching and Learning from Saint Mary’s University and is completing an Ed.D. from the University of Southern California’s Rossier School of Education.

Sindy has been providing and promoting programs, initiatives, and an atmosphere that fosters academics, leadership, service, and community. She served as a TRIO/Student Support Services (SSS) Academic Advisor that allowed her to work with first-generation and low-income college students at a selective liberal arts institution. She also taught in both public and private schools ranging from kindergarten to twelfth grade, and obtained funding for Sustained Dialogue at St. Olaf. She also served as a co-facilitator for a faculty learning community, which provided a hands-on workshop for integrating diversity conversations into first-year courses.

I am excited that Sindy will bring her collaborative spirit, passion, and energies to Carleton. Please join me in welcoming Sindy Fleming to Carleton.

Happy summer!

The Office of Health Promotion was very excited to receive news in May that Carleton’s application for a suicide prevention grant was funded! Many thanks to all the Student Life offices and other campus partners who helped put the successful application together. We look forward to working with everyone in the coming years to improve student mental well-being, decrease stigma associated with mental illness, and increase our capacity as a campus to help students who are struggling.

The Academic Support Center (ASC) would like to congratulate the winners of the Carleton Travel Writing contest, which Renata Fitzpatrick co-organized with Mikaela Auerbach of OCS and the Global Engagement Initiative, and which was generously funded by the Dean of Students Office. Top prize went to Raelynn Benjamin-Biwii ’18 for “The Mountain.” Second prize: Pallav Kumar ’18 for “A Mouthful of Apricots.” Third prize: Veronika Child ’18 for “My Budapest Mom.”

TRIO/Student Support Services is excited to welcome four new TRIO Peer Leaders for the 2017-2018 school year! We celebrated the end of the school year with our End-of-Term Picnic and Senior House, and we look forward to connecting with alums at our TRIO Alumni Reception in mid-June.

The Career Center staff continues to help students with preparing for the upcoming summer months. Students who received internship funding attended an internship orientation to help them make the most of their experience. A separate event featured a panel of three Carleton students who successfully completed internships the previous summer; each student discussed their experience and offered valuable insight to help prepare first-time interns with transitioning from the classroom to a professional setting. Seniors who attended the Senior Showcase were informed about career services available to alums.

The Gender and Sexuality Unity (GSC) would like to thank all those who attended our annual Senior Celebration and give special recognition to Alumni Relations and Dean Livingston for their work in making this program a success. We have also spent time reflecting on Speak Up, our annual community event for survivors of power based personal violence, and the community that gathered for this event.

May was very busy for Dacie Moses’ House. We hosted our end of the year picnic and graduation brunches. Spring term brunches have stayed steady hosting 50-70 students, community members, families and alumni. Our guestroom was booked much of May and we also found time to put in 3 raised beds for a kitchen garden. Our summer residents and handypersons are ready to get going with summer. We visit in the summer for homemade ice cream and great brunches with our own produce.

Residential Life is winding down the closing of the buildings and now at the start of summer break housing. Around 155 students are remaining on campus for the summer in Musser Hall, as these students are either working on campus or are participating in a nearby internship. This summer, we also look forward to welcoming our new Area Director, Steve Schauz to the Goodhue/Evans area. Thank you again for the assistance and feedback from all involved in our search process.

OUT AFTER CARLETON (OAC)
ALUMNI-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Out After Carleton (OAC) is a campus organization that mobilizes Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Queer, Asexual and Allied (LGBTQA+) alumni, students, and friends of the College as a community to support Carleton’s overall educational, admission, careers, and fundraising programs and objectives, especially as they relate to LGBTQA+ students, alumni, faculty, staff, and allied friends of the College. The organization sponsored their Alumni-in-Residence Program, May 17-29, where an alum is invited back to campus to share their expertise and facilitate interactive discussions for LGBTQA+ students.

This year, OAC decided to feature an alum who works in the field of social justice. Laura Clise ’01 is a passionate and entrepreneurial corporate sustainability executive with more than 15 years of diverse experience, instigating and championing cross-functional, multi-stakeholder strategies at the intersection of business and society. She received a BA in International Relations from Carleton College. While at Carleton, she was a member of the varsity women’s soccer and tennis teams, sang a cappella with the Knightingles, worked as an RA, served as the Vice President of Mortarboard, and was part of the group of students involved in hiring Carleton’s first LGBT coordinator in 1999. Since graduating, she has delivered the Common Reading alumni remarks, been a part of two reunion organizing committees, and served on the Out After Carleton Alumni Board and Alumni Career Board.

Currently the founder of a fledgling social enterprise and Senior Advisor to the Impact Finance Center, Laura previously led sustainability and corporate responsibility at Weyerhaeuser. Prior to Weyerhaeuser, she led corporate sustainability at Plum Creek and served as the President of the Plum Creek Foundation.

Laura serves on the Athlete Ally Board of Directors, the IslandWood Board of Directors, is a member of the Net Impact Corporate Advisory Council, and is Vice Chair of the Green Sports Alliance Diversity & Inclusion Committee. She was a 2013 Aspen Institute First Mover Fellow and the recipient of a Human Rights Campaign Exceptional Individual Achievement Award and a National Diversity Council LGBT Leadership Award. Hons Convo ’17

Laura led a series of gatherings, talks, and student career meetings during her two day visit; students had the opportunity to listen to her share her perspectives, insights and ideas, in order to make connections between academic learning and professional development. Laura concluded her visit by serving as the keynote speaker at the Senior Celebration Banquet where the Gender and Sexuality Unity, Alumni Relations, and OAC recognized seniors who have been involved in gender and sexuality-based communities and organizing at Carleton. Laura’s speech emphasized furthering equity and inclusion through direct communication and compassionately holding one another accountable, skills she learned as a Carleton student and through her professional roles.

Every spring, faculty, staff, and students gather in the chapel to celebrate many of the achievements of Carleton students from the past academic year. Honors Convoca- tion, as this event is known, recognizes students admitted to internal or external honors curricula as well as those receiving internation- al, national, college, departmental, and program awards and honors. In addition to remarks from President Pos- kamer, College Chaplain Carolyn Fure- Shelmus, and Dean of Students Carolyn Rossiter'01, each year features a different convocation speaker. This year, 2013 alum Tom Callister spoke of his academic and career trajectories in the fields of physics and astronomy, directly tying his success to receiving the Goldwater and Churchill Scholarships during his time at Carleton. He even shared tips for collaborating with a research team of over 1,000 people! Congratulations to those recognized at Honors Convocation and thank you to all who attended, all who nominated a stu- dent, and all who blew bubbles from the balcony as part of this long-standing tradi- tion.

On Tuesday, May 16, the Peer Leader Committee hosted the annual Peer Leader Orientation to kick-off training for all incoming 2017-2018 peer leaders. Approximately 270 students attended the orientation, representing positions in the following offices: OIL, GSC, Career Center, Residential Life, Office of the Chaplain, SAO, CCCE, TRIO, Academic Support Center, and the Office of Health Promotion. The goal of the program was to offer a space for peer leaders to begin connecting with peer leaders from other offices, as well as offer a chance to reflect on why participants sought the peer leader position. This orientation provided an overview of the various roles a peer leader plays, and how students relate to them, such as that of a mentor, educator, team member, friend, or activist. The committee will continue to coordinate fall training and is looking forward to welcoming back all of our wonderful peer leaders for New Student Week in September!

Division of Student Life enjoyed handing out ice cream to Seniors and their families as part of the Senior Week Celebrations.
