Reflections on Learning as Teachers

“Essays on education that are uniformly lively, literate, and deeply insightful...”

Parker J. Palmer (The Courage to Teach)
Reflections on Learning as Teachers
Edited by Susan Singer and Carol Rutz, 240 pages, softcover, $17.95

TO ORDER, CONTACT THE CARLETON COLLEGE BOOKSTORE, NORTHFIELD, MN 55057
Carletoninfo@collegebookstore.org • http://www.collegebookstore.org • (507) 646-4153 / (800) 799-4148

PARKER J. PALMER (AUTHOR, THE COURAGE TO TEACH):

Reflections on Learning as Teachers brings together 20 essays on education that are uniformly lively, literate, and deeply insightful. ... The writers evolved their essays in dialogue with each other, modeling what is missing on most campuses: a community of discourse about teaching and learning that enhances both individual work and the institutional mission. If this kind of conversation were replicated at colleges across the country—and seeded with the many important insights to be found in this volume—higher education would soon find itself revitalized.