HISTORY INFORMATION SESSION

Last Monday, the History Department SDAs, Ellen and Jonathan, hosted an information session for underclassmen considering the history major, complete with tamales. The event was well attended, with 25 interested students gathering in the History Lounge. Ellen and Jonathan presented their experiences with the History Department and answered questions from the eager crowd.

Professors Harry Williams, Victoria Morse and Bill North also made appearances to present the off-campus studies programs they will be leading in the 2014-15 year: Prof. Williams' US Relations with Ghana trip over winter break, and Prof. Morse and North's spring program, History, Religion and Urban Change in Medieval and Renaissance Rome.

Deadlines to apply to these programs are in April, when we will welcome a new group of sophomores to the major!

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHTS

Nic Netzel '01

Librarian,

Glenelg Country School

After Carleton I spent two months as an intern at the Archives Center at the National Museum of American History, and from there moved on to the University of Washington iSchool to get an MLIS. Originally I wanted to be an archivist, mostly due to my fantastic experiences doing research in Carleton's archives, but, through the course of my studies, my interest switched to working with young adults. For the past 9 years I've worked in the Upper School at a small Independent School in Maryland. I work closely with teachers in all disciplines, but I have a special love for the humanities department, and our fantastic history teachers. I also get to directly teach information and media literacy skills to 9th and 10th graders (as well as coach field hockey, which I initially picked up as a club sport at Carleton.

Elizabeth Carr-Lee '09

Manassas Park High School History Teacher

This year, Liz will be in her 4th full year as a secondary public school teacher. After student teaching, she started working in an after school program at Eastview High School in Apple Valley, before moving to Southwest Junior High in Forest Lake, MN. At Southwest, she developed the Spanish Immersion social studies curriculum and taught bilingual geography, history, and civics. She now lives in northern Virginia and works at Manassas Park High School, where she teaches World and AP European history, sponsors the National Honor Society chapter, coaches the Quiz Bowl team, and advises students on various post-secondary and financial aid options.

SEMINAR ON ARCHIVAL AND HISTORICAL RESEARCH: MARCH 19-22 APPLICATION DEADLINE: MARCH 17, 2014

The Center for Jewish History Seminar on Archival and Historical Research is a four-day program for rising college seniors, MA students and first- and second-year doctoral students to learn the skills of conducting archival research at one of the premier research libraries in the United States. The seminar's focus is on learning a variety of tools for accessing information and incorporating archival and library research into specific projects. Participants will be introduced to the vast holdings of the Center's partner organizations, and the ways those collections are created, stored, and preserved. Applications are welcome from rising college seniors, recent university and college graduates. For full application guidelines, please visit fellowships.cjh.org. Questions may be sent to Christopher Barthel, Senior Manager for Academic and Public Programs, at cbarthel@cjh.org.

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS MARCH 3, 2014

MA/MSc in International and World History at Columbia University and the London School of Economics. This two-year program offers students an opportunity to work with historians to explore the transnational forces that have shaped our world: migration, trade, technological revolutions, epidemic disease, environmental change, wars and diplomacy. Students receive degrees from both institutions as launching pads for a wide range of careers in government, journalism, NGOs, international organizations, and further academic pursuits.

SENIOR MAJOR SPOTLIGHT: MARINA HERRERA-HEINTZ

What is your comps topic?

My comps topic is the Abdication of Edward VIII. I have always been really interested in the relationships between Prime Ministers and Monarchs in England and I had initially planned on doing my comps on Queen Victoria and one of her Prime Ministers but then I stumbled across a press release from the National Archives about the Abdication Papers that were released in 2003 and I really wanted to go and look at them. It kinda just happened.

What was your dream job when you were little?

I wanted to be a vulcanologist when I was little because I loved and still love volcanoes, but I was put off by the whole possibly being melted by lava or a pyroclastic flow thing.

Who is your historical crush, and why? What historic period would you like to visit?

I wouldn't say she's my historical crush, but when I grow up I definitely want to be as awesome and bad-ass as Eleanor of Aquitaine was. She was just so powerful and menacing that her husband locked her up for 15 years and I guess that I would like to terrify someone that much some day.

What historic period would you like to visit?

I would like to visit Plantagenet and Tudor England to finally settle the question of which dynasty was more bad-ass. I could also meet Eleanor of Aquitaine which would be awesome.
