Christopher U. Light Lectureship Concert I
NICOLA MELVILLE, PIANO
Come and be part of the first audience to hear the world premiere of twelve new solo piano works commissioned by faculty pianist, Nicola Melville. These new pieces are a wonderful celebration of American sounds and influences: jazz, funk, tango, Appalachian, Peruvian, rock, minimalism, blues, ragtime and more. Ten of the composers will be discussing their pieces during the evening, including Carleton’s own Phillip Rhodes, 2007 Pulitzer Prize finalista Augusta Read Thomas, and Minneapolis-based Stephen Paulus. This event promises to be a fun and intriguing evening, where the creative talents of these incredible composers will be shared through these diverse miniatures of American music. This concert is funded by The Jerome Composers Fund, the Christopher U. Light Fund, the Arts Council, the Christopher U. Light Lectureship, and Carleton College.
