Study and meditate while living in a monastery near the site of Buddha Shakyamuni’s enlightenment.

Explore Buddhism in India through interdisciplinary courses and Buddhist meditation traditions—plus a unique opportunity to conduct rigorous independent research in the field.

COURSES
- Buddhist Philosophy
- Contemporary Buddhist Culture
- History of South Asian Buddhism
- Buddhist Meditation Traditions
- Independent Study/Field Research
- Hindi or Tibetan Language

CREDIT
16 semester credits

Learn more at go.carleton.edu/buddhismindia
MEDITATION TRADITIONS
Instruction in basic meditation techniques will be given from the major Buddhist traditions: Vipassana, Zazen, and Dzogchen.

INDEPENDENT STUDY
Participants spend the final month working on independent study projects which build on their earlier coursework. This may involve travel to other parts of India or neighboring countries.

CREDIT
Students enroll in 16 semester credits through Carleton College.

LEADERSHIP
The program is led by Arthur McKeown, PhD, Assistant Professor of Asian Studies, Carleton College. Professor Robert Pryor, program director since 1979, continues as Consulting Director.

FALL SEMESTER
Apply by March 15