The members of the Class of 2023 arrived on campus this Tuesday to begin their Carleton journey. Thank you to all those parents of first-year students who were able to be here to take part in the work of moving in, and in the festivities. The class is the most selective and the most diverse class in Carleton’s history, with 33% identifying as students of color, 11% international students and 11% entering as first-generation college students. New Student Week Leaders, Peer Leaders from various offices, President Poskanzer and staff welcomed them to campus on a beautiful fall day. Enjoy some of the images of Move-In Day here, and see all the excitement on this welcome video!

Carleton Connects - Dean of Admissions Art Rodriguez ’96

We invite parents to join an audience of alumni and start the academic year off right by tuning in to a discussion with Art Rodriguez '96, Carleton’s new Vice President and Dean of Admissions and Financial Aid. He’ll share his thoughts on where the College stands in the national environment, where it’s going, and how he made his way back to Carleton this summer.

Friday, September 20, 2019
10:30 - 11:30 am Central

To register for this online webinar, visit tinyurl.com/cconnectsadmissions. Carleton Connects features faculty, staff, and alumni speakers throughout the year. Watch previous shows and find more information at op.carleton.edu/connects.

Opening Convos Kicks Off a New Year

Students, faculty and staff gathered for Opening Convocation this past Monday, which featured an address by James Hohmann, a national political correspondent at The Washington Post. This annual event celebrates the beginning of the academic year and is an opportunity to recognize students who made the Dean's List during the previous academic year. Convocations take place weekly throughout the school year, and feature presentations by specialists in a variety of fields. You can view past convocations here.

Update from Vice President of Student Life, Dean of Students
Carolyn Livingston

As I begin my fifth year at Carleton, I am incredibly privileged to be part of this community. This is truly a wonderful place. The beginning of the fall term is a busy time—not only as we welcome new and returning Carls to Northfield, but also as we shepherd our own children to their individual places and spaces. In Student Life, we also begin to implement new tweaks and suggestions for our many programs and services.

During my new student week welcome this year, I implored our parents and families to ask their students, “Who at the College have you asked to help?” when they share their struggles. Naturally, students will seek first their peers. Please remind your students that my office is here to help them and we are happy to help you navigate these conversations as well.

There are many ways to reach out to me or my staff, and invite you to do so. We are only a phone call (507-222-4075) or email (clivingston@carleton.edu) away. Our website proves useful as well.

I’m excited about being on this journey with you and your student together. Let us know how we can assist.
