Information about fall term

We know families and students have many questions about fall term and we are working to get information to you as quickly as it becomes available. Your student should have recently received the following message from Dean Livingston regarding housing, the Community Covenant, and fall term courses.

The best source of current information is the COVID-19 FAQs for Students page. This page is updated regularly and we urge parents to check back every few days. You can also submit any questions you may have. For more detailed questions related to physical education and athletics, please visit the PEAR FAQs page.

Recording of town hall meeting with families of the classes of 2021-2023

For parents and families who may have missed the July 21 town hall meeting with VP of Student Life & Dean of Students Carolyn Livingston, you can view a recording on the Parent/Family Gateway. We will be hosting an additional town hall on July 30 at 7:00 pm CT for those who did not attend on July 21, or who have additional questions. You can register here. Please note that some of the materials presented will be the same as July 21.

Career Center seeking parent hosts for Externship program

The Career Center’s Externship program will be remote for all students in December 2020. Externships are one- to three-week project-based career exploration experiences designed exclusively for Carls during winter break. We are actively recruiting hosts for externships through mid-September. Carleton parents are invited to consider hosting externs or refer potential hosts from your professional networks to the Career Center. You can learn more at go.carleton.edu/externhosts.

Recent awards for Carleton students, faculty and staff

- Three 2020 grads are Carleton’s first Paglia Post-Baccalaureate Research Fellows. The pilot program, funded by Cathy James Paglia ’74, and her husband Louis Paglia, will provide two or three research opportunities for three STEM graduates.
- Professor Kim Smith received a Lifetime Achievement award for mentoring the next generation of environmental scientists and activists.
- Assistant Professor Charisse Burden-Stelly was awarded a postdoctoral scholarship to study reactionary politics around race and capitalism.
- Janet Lewis-Muth, Director of Health Promotion, received an award to incorporate well-being strategies into academic settings. Carleton is only the fourth liberal arts college to receive this funding in the award’s 17-year history.

Connecting with other Carleton parents

If you’re interested in connecting with other parents, you have a number of options:
